The new Star Wars Republic Fighter Radio Control Tank is here and this is a must for star wars fans, The vehicle has great detail and you are able to interact any 3.75 star wars figures that you already own, this is a new model so there are not many reviews to be found at the moment,

The Star Wars Republic Fighter Radio Control Tank has a retail price of $49.99 which does seem a little high but I have found it on amazon for $38.16 which seems a more realistic figure, the one review I could find gave this model a 4 stars out of five,

Run for cover and battle droids. The Republic Fighter tank is coming for you. This tough ground vehicle rolls onto the field and blasts the droids with concussion missiles. It can carry several clone troopers and bring them into the center of the action. For fast-attack fury, the Republic Fighter tank has no equal. Roar right into high-speed battle with this super-cool remote control Republic Fighter Tank vehicle from the Star Wars: The Clone Wars movie. The tank's infrared remote control has forward and reverse-turn directional steering. You can remotely fire 6 missiles. Open the cockpit and put the included figure in the driver's seat.

There's room for a second figure, which is sold separately. Once you've loaded the missiles in the launchers, rotate them to the right position. Then use the controller to send the tank speeding into action or fire the missiles. The vehicle comes with a figure, controller, launching missiles, blaster and instructions. The Tank has a working headlight. The vehicle requires 4 AA batteries and the controller requires 2 AAA batteries, which are not included. Warning: Small parts present a choking hazard to children under 3.
